Building Character & Saving Money

IBLP Seminar

During the month of July we were privileged to host the IBLP (Institute in Basic Life Principles) Seminar. I was very excited to have our oldest three daughters attending. The Seminar covers a wide range of topics including responsibility to authority, overcoming habitual sins, dealing with anger, bitterness, and pride, courtship versus dating, and even fasting. They also produce a large amount of material on character. I thank God for the positive changes I am seeing in my family as a result of learning more about how to love God and live peaceably with all men.

New Prayer Cards: Many have asked about getting a new prayer card from us. Getting them designed, printed, and shipped can cost around $500.00.

Last month a dear lady from one of our supporting churches agreed to take family pictures for us. Sister Helen did a wonderful job. I designed, Monica edited, and the kids cast their votes. A missionary friend told us of a company up north that will print the cards (one side) for free. That is saving money! We should have them in about a month.

Furlough:

Being in the States is keeping us very busy. I am making phone calls a few hours every day. I have called over two hundred churches in Florida in the last couple weeks. I now have two more meetings on
